GRACE'S OFFICE. The District-Attorney has not yet drawn the indictments against the Police Commissioners, but will do so as soon as he has had time to look over the voluminous testimony taken by the Grand Jury. Commissioner Nichols says it showed very bad taste on the part of the Grand Jurors not to wait until the trial before the Mayor was finished. The proceedings in the Mayor's office were of the usual character they ought to behave better.

INDICTMENTS NOT YET DRAWN. THE DISTRICT-ATTORNEY EXAMINING THE EVIDENCE

-COMMISSIONER NICHOLS'S GREAT FAITH. The indictment of the Police Commissioners was the subject of much discussion yesterday, but no action was taken toward the preparation of the indictments by the District-Attorney. That officer will probably consider the testimony taken by the Grand Jury to-day, and will decide on the form of the indictments. Commissioner Nichols said yesterday to a TRIBUNE reporter, in speaking of the mat-

"I do not think it was in good taste to indict the Police Commissioners until the investigation now going on before the Mayor was closed. Our defence will be made there, and will be the same on the trial which will follow the indicton the trial which will follow the indictments. I have little more to add to what my friend and colleague, Cournissioner Mason, has said in The Tellune of to-day. The fact remains, after all argument has been exhausted, that the Mayor is endeavoring to prove that we should do for $500,000 what he and his friends ask $1,000,000 to accomplish; and certain so-called public-spirited citizens are endeavoring to convince the community that we have been very remiss in our duty, because we have not been able to give them clean streets at an expenditure of only little more than one-half of what they demand shall be given to the person or persons to whom they wish the task of cleaning the streets to be intrusted. This strikes us as very inconsistent, and we are in a position at the present time to feel the full force of the inconsistency. However, we think, as the investigation goes on, and all the facts are brought out, that public opinion will undergo a material change. Certainly we have every confidence in the justice of our cause, and are well satisfied with the publicity that will be given to the investigation, the evidence on both sides being fully reported as the bearing goes on."

publicity that will be given to the investigation, the evidence on both sides being fully reported as the bearing goes on."

"Then I infer that you are not anxious to retain the Street-Cleaning Bureau in your Department?"

"No, we have never been anxious for it. It has been a source of annoyance and trouble to the Police Department ever since it has been under the control of the Police Board. We propose to do our whole duty as long as the Bureau is under our control, but we look to see the Legislature place it elsewhere. As to the assertion that the snow and ice should be cleaned from the streets, do these people ever stop to think what would be the cost of removing the snow and ice, even if the necessary force of men and teams could be obtained? We are allowed $40,000 a year for this service. Well, to remove the snow and ice from all the streets would require an expenditure of more than $1,400,000. As I said before, we know that we have done nothing wrong; we have simply been asked to perform impossibilities, and because we could not meet expectations with the means at our command the present state of things has come to pass. We have faith, however, that everything will come out right."

FACTS AGAINST THE COMMISSIONERS. EXPECTATION OF LIVELY TESTIMONY-THE QUAR-

RELS OF THE LAWYERS-MAYOR GRACE RE-BUKES THEM.

There was a large attendance at the Mayor's office yesterday morning, as the cross-examination of John loran, the discharged employe of the Street Cleaning Department, promised to make the trial of the accused Police Commissioners unusually interesting. Commissioners Nichols and Mason were not present when the Court opened. The defendants were represented by Messrs. Bliss, Bartlett and Root. Mayor Grace was calm as usual. Mr. Bliss said that he was not ready to go on immediately with the cross-examination of Moran, and he asked that some other witness should be called.

Frederick L. Talcott, of No. 36 West Fifty-ninthet., then testified that his street had not been thoroughly cleaned since last autumn. William G. Ruce. oughly cleaned since last autumn. Witham 6. Ruce, of No. 57 Clinton-place, stated that the street in front of his house had not been cleaned this winter. The ashes and garbage had been removed twice by orders of Captain Williams, to whom he had made complaints. He had paid the Police Department complaints. He had paid the Police Department cart drivers several times to remove ashes and gar-cart drivers several times to remove ashes and garbage. John H. Welsh, of No. 322 West Thirty-third-st., said it was over two years since his street had been cleaned by the Police Department. The residents had been obliged to combine and hire a man to keep the street clean.

Martin Hildebrand, a porter, at No. 153 Chambers-st., testified that he was in the habit of paying the cart drivers of the Street-Cleaning Department for removing the ashes from the store in which he was employed. J. E. Morris, a grocer at No. 185 Chambers-st., was also in the habit of paying to have his ashes taken away. The ashes, he said, would sometimes accumulate so that it would be almost impossible to get goods into the store. Charles Buther, of No. 307 Greenwich-st., testified to the filthy condition of that street during the last winter.

Adolph Kobinson, a crockery dealer at No. 21 Espex-st., between Hester and Canal-sts., was the next witness.

sex-st., between Hester and Canal-sts., was the next witness.

Mr. Andrews—What was the condition of Essex-st. during last winter?

Mr. Root—I object to that question. The question ought to refer to some specific time. We had an illustration of the evil results of such questions yesterday. Evidence was introduced here which was in reality as false as any that was ever introduced. If Immping his hand upon the table.] A general question was asked of the witness Moran, who was discharged from the Street-Cleaning Department by these Commissioners, which brought forth an answer from him that he knew of men employed in the Street-Cleaning Department whom he never knew to do a day's work. This statement went into the record and into the public prints. It was false and untrue. [Thump, thump.] On the cross-examination it came down to this, that he had put men at work on the pay-rolls and that he did not know whether they had worked or not. It seems to me that the Counsel for the Corporation himself must acknowledge that it is very unfair to put such questions, when the cross-examination does not immediately follow. These questions should be proper in law [thump]: they should point to definite facts. [A delicate thump.] The way in which the witness Moran was examined gave him an opportunity to cast—in a cunning way, so that he cannot be prosecuted for perjury—an unjoutation on the Commissioners, which was in fact [thump] false. [Thump.]

Mr. Andrews (quietly)—The learned gentleman has made a speech which would not be tolerated in any court which had the right to preserve order by fining the counsel for contempt. He has charged the witness with cunning and with perjury and almost everything else, while he is yet on the witness stand. His objection to the question is frivolous to the last degree, and it is not made in good faith.

Mr. Root—My friend knows that he has made the statement to secure for the prosecution the assistance of the public prints. He knows that his so-called arguments are not those of a lawyer but of a

THE MAYOR'S REBUKE.

The Mayor (with dignity)-Gentlemen, I would like to say to you that I have been perfectly willing and perfectly patient to sit here and listen to expressions and attempts to cast reflections upon my character because I felt that from the position I occupy they were entirely unworthy of my notice. But when I find that gentlemen between themselves do not maintain that dignity and decorum which I think you ought as between lawyers, I beg to remind you that I have not the power to maintain order in these proceedings, being informed by the Corporation Connsel that I have not the power to commit for contempt. As I said before, I have been compelled to listen to language which, I am sure, would not have the approbation of any men claiming to be gentlemen, in their cooler moments. And I would now beg that you would, in your relations between yourselves, moderate your language and discuss matters of law on purely a legal hazis. I do not pretend to have any knowledge of legal questions, only such as a business man can gather. I am consequently guided to some extent by the arguments which I hear before me. I must say that I think if you will confine yourself to argument and leave declamation alone, we can get along much better. It would be creditable to all of you and would lead to an earlier result in the investigation.

Mr. Root (smiling)—I hope the counsel for the reflections upon my character because I felt

Mr. Root (smiling)—I hope the counsel for the prosecution will profit by the Mayor's admonition.
The objection of Mr. Root was then overruled, and ir. Robinson proceeded to tell what he knew bout Essex-et, which was that it had been during

"Have you ever been complained of for obstructing the sidewalk in front of your store?"

"Yes." (After a pause.)
"That is all. We will have that indictment in "That is all. We will have controlled the court."

William H. McCorkle, of No. 100 Eldridge-st., was mext called. He pulled out a huge roll of manuscript, from which he proceeded to read his testimony. He made an examination of the streets in February and found them in a very had condition, the particulars of which he gave. At 1 p. m. a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION.

THE AFTERNOON SESSION. At the afternoon session Mr. McCorkle continued his testimony. Many objections were made to the questions put, but Mr. Andrews asserted that they were not made in good faith. Mr. McCorkle said yesterday. Mayor Grace told the lawyers that that certain ash-barrels had remained at one place for twenty-four hours. Mr. Root objected to this on the ground that he could not possibly naswer that question from his own knowledge.

"I suppose," concluded Mr. Root, turning to Mr. Andrews, "that you don't consider this objection to be made in good faith f"

be made in good faith?

Mr. Andrews—I do not.

Mr. Blies with great deliberation!—Your Honor this morning advised the counsel to be more judicial in their remarks to each other. I should advise the counsel for the perocential to stop accusing us of lack of good alone by the counsel for the perocential to stop accusing us of lack of good alone by the counsel for the perocential corporation. Counsel's office, and who has been beguine a judicial position from the Republicans, I think it is out of place. When he says here irraising his voice) and repeats that we are not actual in good faith, it stime to be stopped. It is interely weight and the place when he says which provails be so that the hast taken the criticisms we have made upon him as a processor as accelering group him as a judge—His Honor has even consulted with the Corporation Counsel to see whether he can't shall us up for contempt of court. We don't expect (defaultly) to get our rights here; but we do expect to get our objections recorded. The counsel for the prosecution has charged us with not acting in good faith. Hat is a grave charge to make a grain at a member of the bar.

"We should not," said Mr. Root, addressing the Mayor, after Mr. McCorkle had been overwhelmed with objections for about an hour, "put your Honor to so much trouble, if we had not previously detected the counsel for the prosecution endeavoring to get in evidence not covered by the specifications."

The proceedings were so dull that the Mayor occupied a part of the time in writing. Commissioner Nichols put one hand in his pocket, and tipping up his chair and resting his head against the wall, closed his eyes, looking the picture of peace and innocence. Commissioner Mason struggled very hard to keep awake, but he could not repress an inclination to yawn. Commissioner French fled in despair. Finally the Mayor adjourned the Court until 11 a. m. Friday.

MEFTING OF THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE.

MEETING OF THE CONFERENCE COMMITTEE. THE SENATE BILL INSISTED ON-THE ASSEMBLY

MEMBERS TO PROPOSE SOME MEASURE TO SE-IBY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUSE.] ALBANY, April 26 .- The Conference Committees of the Senate and Assembly on the New-York Street-Cleaning bills met to-night. Senator McCarthy

mittee was a unit in favor of the Senate bill, otherwis rescinding its bill and accepting the Senate bill, Mesers. Carpenter, Hamilton and Brodsky voted in favor of the Assembly bill and of rejecting the Senate bill. Mr. Car-penter then said that he was unwilling to give Mayor Grace the sole power of appointing a head to the Street-Cleaning Department; he had some crude ideas as to the proper disposition of the appointing power, which he had not yet had time to fully examine. At a future meeting of the committee he would proffer some amendments to the two bills, which he thought might harmenize them and be acceptable to his fellow members. Mr. Erodsky said that he was still in fellow members. Mr. Brodsky said that he was still in favor of having a commission of three persons control the street-cleaning. This idea was not received favor-ably by any other member of the committee, and Mr. Brodsky did not pross it. Flually the following propo-sitions were unanimously adopted: First, that the Legislature should be urged to pass some bill without fail this session for the improvement of street-cleaning in New-York City. Second, That the Police Department of New-York City should be deprived of the street-cleaning bu-York City should be deprived of the street-cleaning bureau in any bill on street-cleaning that might be passed.

Mr. Carpenter then stated that he and his associates who resisted the acceptance of the Senate bill would be ready with some propositions in regard to the appointing power to-morrow. The committees then adjourned till that time. Messrs. Carpenter, Hamilton and Brodsky state that they have not considered together as yet any suggested amendments to the Assembly bill which might lead to a compromise. They state that they have ideas on the subject of an indefinite nature. One of the ideas is said to be the conferring on the Board of Health of the power of appointment. John J. O Brien, the Chief of the Bureau of Elections of the Board of Police, who is here, states that President French opposes such a transfer of power, as he is a member of the Board of Health, and does not desire to have anything more to do with street-cleaning. Another proposition is to give the Mayor the power of appointment and the Governor the power of removal.

THE COMMITTEE OF TWENTY-ONE.

The Committee of Twenty-one, having in charge the Senate Street-Cleaning bill, met at No. 79 Fourth-ave. Monday. The committee decided that the sub-committee of nine should go to Albany to-day, or as seen as word came that the conference mmittees of the Senate and Assembly would meet commultees of the Senate and Assembly would meet to consider the subject. Chairman James said after the meeting that the committee had confidence that the Senate bill, or the principle involved in it of undivided responsibility, would be accepted by the Assembly.

Mr. James has addressed a letter to Senator McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Committee of conference, expressing the hope that no action will be taken adverse to the Senate bill or to the principle thereof without affording the committee an opportunity of being heard. The communication says that the members of the committee are prepared to attend any formal meeting of the committee on conference, or to go to Albany at any moment when their presence is desired or can be productive of any effect.

A NEW HORTICULTURAL HALL.

About $50,000 has been subscribed toward the building of a new hall in a central site for the use of the New-York Horticultural Society, and it is thought that the $150,000 additional that will be needed will soon be obtained. If the canvass for subscriptions is successful within the time anticipated the building will probably be erected this year. The hall will resemble in certain details the Royal Agricultural Society's Hall in London and the Horticultural Hall of Philadelphia, recently destroyed by fire. It will be built somewhere in the neighborhood of Fourteenth and Eighteenth-sta, and will be the headquarters for the mouthly spring and fall exhibitions of the society. Samuel Sloan, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, is the president of the society. Mr. Sloan said yesterday that he was not prepared to give the details of the project for publication yet. He was canvassing quietly for subscriptions, and when the matter had advanced further he would be willing to talk. would be willing to talk.

Pesne, which was undergoing repairs in New-York. Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock, on its first trip to Yonkers, when nearly opposite Fort Lee, one of the steam plugs of the Harlem blew out, soon ulling the beat with steam and causing considerable excitement among the passengers. The engineer after reversing the engine sprang below and put out the tires, taking the place of the fireman, who in his fright had abandoned his post. He received slight inquires from escaping steam. Nobody cles was hurt. The River-daie, which plies between New-York and Feelskill, was within signalling distance, and conveyed the Harlem's passengers to Yonkers.

It was expected that a report would be made to-day to the Executive Committee as to whether it was best to go on with the enterprise or abandom it. One of the leading spirits of the Fair said yesterday: "We are going to carry this thoughthan the representatives which has one-quarter of its capital subscribed in the short time we have been at work is not going to fail. A SKILLTON IN A BACK YARD.

Arthur Clarke, a laborer, employed to dig up the back yard at No. 79 East Fourth-st., yesterday mearthed a human skeleton, which was about a toot and a half under the surface. The lower jaw was crushed as if by a blow with a club or hammer, or perhaps by the spade. The presence of the skeleton could not be accounted for, and the police were called in. The people who fixed in the house a year or two ago have moved away. The bones were gathered up and taken to the Morgne.

MAJOR GARDNER WANTING TO BE COACHED.

At the Whittaker trial yesterday, Mr. Stimpson concluded his long direct examination with the assertion that he had already pointed out over 600 habits which distinguished both No. 27 and the author of the note of warning and which were amply sufficient to identify the two writers. The cross-examination was directed to prove the incompetency of the witness. General Miles objected to the Judge-Advocate availing himself of the suggestions of Mr. Amos, who prompted that officer from time to time. Major Gardner contended for his right to ask such advice as he required, and the court retired to argue the point, remaining out until it was time to adjourn. The Court will meet this morning at 11 e'clock.
